

Workforce Development Roundtable

Workforce ready college graduates: Where are they & how does my company find them?

November 13, 2014

11:30 am - 1:30 pm

The Columbus Club
181 E. Broad Street
Columbus, OH 43215

This new roundtable event, which will be held in several cities throughout the state this fall, brings together corporate CEOs, presidents and senior executives with OFIC member institution presidents and academic deans to openly discuss the challenges of workforce development, the economic advancement of Ohio and the role of independent higher education in Ohio as a resource for talent. Lunch will be provided.

*Register for the roundtable by November 6 at www.ofic.org****

Featured Speaker:

James Malz, President, Ohio Market, JPMorgan Chase (the third largest employer in Ohio) will provide corporate examples of human capital hiring challenges, ideas on how JPMorgan Chase is addressing these challenges and the effective partnership the company has developed with OFIC and Ohio's independent colleges. During this session attendees will also have the opportunity, in an open forum, to discuss their corporate hiring needs/challenges with college representatives and others in attendance.

Also hear from:

Peter Cimboric, President, Ohio Dominican University, will share how ODU and other independent colleges in Ohio are producing top graduates that are ready to advance into corporate Ohio and careers around the world.

Jeffrey Stein, Vice President - Operations, Nationwide NRP, will discuss the value of supporting private higher education in Ohio as a way to positively influence the future hiring pool with workforce ready graduates. He will also speak about the strong connection between the Columbus business community and support of OFIC and its 34 member institutions.

Gordon Brolier, President, The Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges (OFIC), will present data supporting the workforce readiness of graduates of OFIC member institutions and the increasingly critical need for corporate Ohio to establish new hiring connections among Ohio's independent colleges' pool of graduates.
